Re: Recommendation for Jennifer Vacchio

To Whom It May Concern:

I am pleased to write to you on behalf of Jennifer Vacchio, who was under my supervision as Marketing Administrator from October 18, 2004 to June 30, 2005. In that time, Jennifer built the foundation for this new position and set a great standard for those who will follow her. Her daily tasks required that she have direct contact with the partners and associates of our firm to ensure that any opportunities to communicate with and serve both potential and existing clients were accomplished. As Marketing Administrator Jennifer updated the presentation of our firm with a website, business cards and stationery, marketing brochures, and billing organizational charts to keep us abreast of changes in client spending--pertinent information in helping us to determine our clients' needs.

As a valuable member of our staff, Jennifer was tenacious, assertive, communicative and organized. She consistently demonstrated the ability to keep everyone in the firm informed and abreast of inter-departmental marketing activity, and did so with a unique style and flare. She made great strides and overcame many obstacles in order to accomplish the marketing goals and plans she set forth for the firm.

Participating in the company's softball team, firm bowling competitions and other sporting challenges made Jennifer a visible and approachable employee to all. Because of her persistence, ability to relate to others, and high energy, I am confident that Jennifer is an exceptional candidate for just about any endeavor she pursues in the future.

Sincerely,

James R. Cohen
