Dear Jennifer:

I would like thank you for the excellent coverage of The Source Stock Footage Library in your July Stock Footage Issue of Millimeter. The image of the yawning baby was a very clever way to introduce the article, and as promised it was not a "yawner". The article did an excellent job of portraying where the Stock Footage industry is going. Digital technologies and use of the Internet in sales are the real "hot button" issues right now and the interview excerpts addressed both the pros and cons of those issues.

Once again, bravo on the Stock Footage issue and thanks for allowing The Source to participate.

Sincerely,

Robert Soler
